The Gold Separator—A Great Invention

[From the Chicago Tribune December 5th.]

A largely attended meeting of gentlemen interested in the mining of the precious metals was held recently in the office of Fuller & Ford Nos 282 and 284 Madison street for the purpose of witnessing the operation of a machine recently invented by Fuller, for the purpose of extracting gold from quartz. The meeting was organized by the choice of David A George as President and W L Church as Secretary. After the machine had been thoroughly tested, a Committee of prominent gentlemen was chosen to report on the subject. The report is so comprehensive that any description of ours is unnecessary. We give it entire, with the names of the Committee appointed. Coming from men so well qualified to judge, the highly favorable views therein expressed will have great weight with an intelligent community.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE.

The undersigned having been appointed a Committee to witness and report on the trial of Willard M Fuller's invention for separating gold from quartz, beg leave to present the following report.

Since by far the greater portion of the gold unmined is found in quartz rock, the means employed to separate it are of prime importance. The subject has engaged the attention of inventors and scientific men for several years past, and the result has been the introduction of hundreds of processes for the crushing of gold bearing quartz and the separation of the metal therefrom. The difficulties to be overcome are neither few nor slight. In the first place the gold is inclosed in very hard rock. Again, it exists generally in the very minute particles, often not visible to the naked eye, each one of which is completely enveloped with the quartz rock. In the first place it is necessary to unlock these flinty vaults in which nature has hidden her treasures and then to rifle them. To accomplish the first is the object of the crushing process. By this the lumps of gold bearing quartz are reduced to powder, and of course a great portion of the particles of gold exposed. To effect this, hundreds of crushing and stamping mills have been invented, the object being to reduce the quartz to powder as finely as possible and as rapidly as possible. Perhaps, however, the old stamping mill, which acts on the principle of the mortar and pestle, is still more efficient than any of the later inventions, and there still exists an open field for the genius of the inventor.

But the crushing of the quartz is but one-half of the work. We have burst open the safe, but whom can we find with sight so keen and touch so delicate as to be able to pick up these grains of treasure, many of which we can only perceive under the magnifying glass? Here we call in the aid of the chemist, who points out servants who not only have all the love for this shining dust, which is common to so many organized and immortal beings but, unlike them, the power to seize upon and appropriate it whenever they come in contact. The most available agents which possess this property are quicksilver and lead. When these metals in a fluid state come in contact with gold they absorb it and form a composite metal which is termed an amalgam. This amalgam can then be again decomposed and the gold separated from the quicksilver or lead. The fluidity of quicksilver at ordinary temperatures has made it readily available, and for a long time it was the only agent used in the process of amalgamating, in operations of any extent, and it is still almost exclusively employed. Hundreds of processes for amalgamating with mercury have been invented within the past few years, many of which are as effective, perhaps, as any machine using the quicksilver process can be.

But in many respects quicksilver is inferior to lead as an amalgamating agent. In the first place, it is a very costly metal, while lead is one of the cheapest. The use of it, again, is unwholesome and even dangerous, for, in separating it from the gold, after the amalgamation is completed, it must be evaporated, and those engaged in the process are often compelled to inhale this mercurial vapor, the effect of which is always injurious and not unfrequently fatal. Further, the quicksilver acts very imperfectly as an amalgamator. Only the particles of gold which are bright and not enveloped with oxydized metal, sulphuret of iron, or vapor, will it deign to touch. Now, the fact is, that a very large proportion of the gold contained in quartz is enveloped, not only by the rock, but also by iron pyrites, which mercury avoids, and the result is that of the whole amount of gold contained in the quartz, and which has hitherto been obtainable only by a costly chemical process not more than twenty per cent. is ordinarily extracted; that is, of the whole amount of gold actually mined and crushed, only one fifth has been extracted and put into circulation! As the gold obtained from quartz forms by far the largest portion of the whole amount yearly mined, some idea may be formed of the great gain to miners, and to the nation, which would be the result of a process which would perfectly accomplish its object and remove all the gold from the ore.

Within two years past some attention has been paid by inventors to the properties of lead as an amalgamator. It was known that melted lead would form a complete alloy with gold, and moreover, that it would dissolve those foreign substances which so often prevent quicksilver from incorporating the gold. But lead is not at atmospheric temperatures a fluid metal, and can only be made so by over 600 degrees of heat, and when so melted rapidly combines with and extracts from the gold the crude material with which it may come in contact. Chicago has taken the lead in the invention of lead amalgamators. About two years ago Matthew Laflin, of this city, invented the first machines of this kind. Since that time a machine has been invented and patented by John B Atwater, of this city, for the same purpose. Several other machines of this kind have also been patented. The machine lately invented and patented by another citizen of Chicago, Willard M Fuller whose practical workings we have witnessed to-day promises to fulfill the requirements of the quartz miner, so far as its mechanical construction is concerned. In this machine the lead comes in contact only with the gold bearing quartz itself which is simply forced through it by the creation of a vacuum. It depends on the fact that pulverized quartz is as impervious to air as water and that it is lighter than the melted lead.

The machine of Fuller occupies less room than an ordinary fanning mill. The lead is contained in an iron vessel and is kept in fluidity by a coal fire underneath. The quartz is then forced through the lead by the pressure of the atmosphere and passes off into a receiver made for the purpose, leaving all the gold, as it is claimed, in the lead. In an air tight vessel partially filled with melted lead which is kept in a fluid state by a fire in the furnace underneath the vessel is inserted a cast-iron cylinder surmounted by a hopper open at the bottom and extending into the lead to within a short distance of the bottom of the vessel. This cylinder serves as a receiver, into which the quartz is placed. The exterior air tight vessel above the lead is connected with an air tight pump. When the air is exhausted above the lead the pressure of the atmosphere on the column of quartz in the cylinder forces it down to the bottom of the cylinder, escaping from which it rises through the melted lead by virtue of its own specific gravity being less than the lead, whence when it accumulates to a certain height it passes off through a pipe to a "tailings" receiver, every grain of it having gone through a column of fluid lead several inches deep. The lead can be drawn off at any time and the gold separated from it by the usual process.

The trial of the machine which we have to day witnessed has fully satisfied us

1 That by this machine the pulverized quartz is brought immediately and very perfectly into contact with the melted lead we have but little [illegible]

2 That on this account and moreover because in the process the air is nowhere brought in contact with the lead during the time of the amalgamation, we are of the opinion that the gold will be extracted from the quartz more completely than by any process of amalgamation with mercury.

3 That from the operation of the machine which we saw it work, where a man working the pump furnished all the power required, we are convinced that with this machine the extraction of the gold can be effected very rapidly.

4 That from the simplicity of the machinery used and the readiness with which it is operated as well as the excellence of its work, it seems that it must recommend itself to all engaged in mining operations or in any way interested in the development of the mineral treasures of the nation.

The trial had this afternoon before a number of prominent mechanics and scientific men exhibited the most satisfactory results. Not only the successful working of the machine but its capacity, is something wonderful. The crushed quartz is passed through as fast as wheat through a flour mill. Chemical analysis of some of the quartz which has passed through the mill are now making, which will establish beyond the possibility of a doubt the real value of the machine for extracting gold. Its capacity and the perfection of its workings are equalled only by its beautiful simplicity. A child can understand it, and the simplicity of its construction renders its operations certain as well as satisfactory.

It can scarcely be doubted that the introduction of Fuller's machine will prove an era in the history of gold mining. By its use the tailings of other machines, which have been piled up as so much valueless sand, can be made to yield a better return than the freshly crushed quartz by the quicksilver process. The benefit of an increased production of gold will be national, as well as individual, and we can well afford to rejoice over an invention which promises to enrich the nation as well as the ingenious inventor.

WHAT GENERAL SHELBY THINKS OF MEXICO. The Lexington (Mo.) Express contains the following extracts from a letter of General Shelby to a relative in that town. It is dated at Cordova, Mexico, November 12th. General Shelby was a rebel:

This is the best country I ever saw, the finest climate I was ever in. I am satisfied the climate here would entirely restore your health, besides, I know the land would please you. Everything under the sun here grows to perfection. I have seen cotton, sugar, coffee and tobacco, corn, rice, and every kind of vegetables you have in Missouri, growing to perfection; fruits of every variety that can be found on earth are to be had here—oranges, lemons, pineapples, bananas, our apples, in fact so many varieties that this sheet of paper would not contain half their names. The land lies as prettily as any in Lafayette or Saline. The Government is very liberal; it offers to foreign colonists 640 acres near here, to each head of a family, at one dollar per acre, on five years time. The lands, too, are not more than five to ten miles from the railroad, which will be completed in twelve months to this place. I am fully satisfied that any good farmer can make a fortune here in six or ten years. If our people emigrate at all, this is the place for them, and not Brazil. Any place but Brazil. They make two crops of corn a year here. The seasons are regular and the abundance of rain, and, unlike the most of Mexico, there is no irrigation here; corn grows beautifully—plenty of timber and fine water. It is never colder here than in September in Missouri, and it is never warmer than your May weather. We have ice here and never out of sight of [illegible]. You will ask how is this? I will answer, that the mountains ten miles off afford ice, and their tops are always covered with snow. If our people had this country, it would be a paradise. A farmer, ten miles from here, a Georgian, told me he sold his coffee crop last year, the proceeds of sixty acres, for sixteen thousand dollars. He only worked ten hands except while gathering, and then about [illegible]. Labor here is from twenty-five to fifty cents per day, they board themselves, and only get pay for the days they work. I have secured a section of land for you, and will hold it until I hear from you.

Slayback and General Price are here; in all about one hundred Confederates, who are all settling. Dr. Terry is here, Dick Collins, Charley Jones, Bill Fell. A great many who have become discouraged, out of money and away from their loved ones, have returned. Many may now [illegible]. Tobacco can be made very profitable here. It grows as well here, General Price says, as he ever saw it in Missouri or Virginia.

Prospects of another war [illegible] to be looming up. One with Europe, it bids fair to be a [illegible] sharp affair. Let us wait and see how it goes.

Under the [illegible] of the Emperor, you can [illegible] contracts in the United States, with your [illegible] for ten years, and it will be binding here; the negro will have to stick, so any person coming here can bring their servants if they can get them to come.

Another Pretense Abandoned.

The Democratic Review takes a position in reference to Maximilian, Mexico and the Monroe Doctrine similar to that held by the present and the preceding Administrations. Instead of furiously demanding the immediate expulsion of the Austrian interloper from the Mexican territory, as all its party journals have done, the Review counsels a policy as temperate as that which Secretary Seward has pursued. It advises the country to wait for the reassertion and enforcement of the republican doctrine of Monroe "until we have recovered our strength, restored harmony at home and risen above our financial embarrassments." This does not accord very well with the policy which the Copperhead press, including the Review, recommended during the continuance of our great civil war. Throughout the whole course of that struggle the Government was importuned to interfere in the Mexican embroglio and declare war on France at once, unless that power would stop its aggressions on this continent. But now, when we are far better prepared for war with a foreign power than at any previous time for five years, the Review is anxious for the Government to forbear. That Democratic journal is imitating Nick Bottom, the weaver. At first it roared like a lion, or, (as Bottom expresses it,) "in a manner that did any man's heart good to hear." But now it concludes by "roaring us as gently as any sucking dove;" it "roars as an 'twere any nightingale."

The reason of this change of views is very easily seen. When this Government was engaged with the rebels in a struggle which taxed its energies to the utmost, to have interposed in behalf of Mexico and to have thus brought on a war with France, would have been fatal to the United States. The rebellion would have triumphed, the independence of the "Southern Confederacy" would have been secured; the United States would have been overpowered, beaten and humiliated, and the Copperheads, who have never had any sympathy with their country except in so far as the Government would sustain slavery, would have witnessed precisely what they desired to see accomplished. Hence the anxiety they manifested all through the war to have the Government embroiled with France. But now when the time has come that the war they courted would not prove disastrous, and when the Government could at least defend itself, the "Democracy" begin to forget the Monroe Doctrine, and to hope that the Government will not involve us in a war with France for the sake of republicanism in Mexico.

While the rebellion lasted the "Democracy" were animated by the single purpose of aiding it. Since its overthrow they have had no policy at all. Their zeal for the Monroe Doctrine was a pretence which they have already abandoned.

The British Pacific Railway.

In Harper's Magazine for January we find an article which gives an account of an attempted exploration of the country between the Red river settlements and Victoria, Vancouver Island. The expedition was undertaken by two Englishmen, Lord Milton and Dr. Cheadle, with a view to ascertain whether a practicable route for a railroad exists from Ottawa, C. W., to the western confines of the British American Possessions. It took the party two years to get through. Though they set out, "to explore a track for a Pacific Railroad all the way on British soil," they wisely avoided the impassable country lying between their starting point and the Red river settlements, taking instead the vastly easier route through Chicago, La Crosse, St. Paul, &c., to Georgetown in Minnesota. From the point last named they proceeded down Red river by [illegible] to Fort Garry. There they bought horses, obtained guides, and pushed forward into the Saskatchewan country. They passed the winter near Fort Carlton. In the spring they resumed their trip, and after undergoing indescribable hardships, succeeded in getting through to New Westminster in the following autumn.

This preliminary survey, if it has settled anything, has established the fact that the route explored is entirely impracticable for a railroad. The mountains on the way are lofty; and of passes there are few or none. During the greater part of the year snow thirty or forty feet in depth lies on the mountains. This alone will decide the impracticability of the route for a railroad. True, Professor Hind, a learned English gentleman, declares the road can be built. So it can be; but how to make it of use after it's actually constructed, is a problem which is worth considering before so considerable an item of expense is incurred. "The road would probably cost one hundred millions sterling and thirty years time, and care would have to be taken to prevent the workmen from perishing with cold and hunger during the winter season."

The adventurers do not speak flatteringly of the agricultural capabilities of the country they traversed. "British Columbia," they tell us, "is not an agricultural country. Vancouver Island, too, is merely a huge rock." The country they passed over is "a sea of hills; a land of mountains and forests, or shingly swells and terraces covered with bunch grass. The farmer looks in vain for rich alluvial valleys." These travelers confirm an impression previously entertained in this country, that the northern limit of productive country on the Pacific coast lies south of the boundary line. They say that Oregon and Washington will always have to feed the miners of British Columbia.

The report which these Englishmen make does not give a very hopeful view of the prospects of a British Pacific railway. It makes the scheme look like a magnificent humbug. The travelers desired to report as favorably as possible, but their own narrative gives very little encouragement that the road will ever be built.

The true route for a railroad lies through Montana and Idaho Territories. "A Pacific railway constructed wholly on the soil of the United States" will be completed ere many years shall have flown by. John Bull, sluggish and inert, will hardly get ahead of the Yankee in this great enterprise.

OUR INTERNAL REVENUE.—The New York Times says:

No little astonishment is expressed at the continued magnitude of the receipts of the Internal Revenue Bureau. Not the least amazed individuals are the officers of the Bureau and the Secretary of the Treasury himself. The experiences are so far beyond the previous estimates and the steadiness is so different from the anticipated variations, that the whole can only be accounted for by the great maxim that we are a wonderful people.

The excellent working of the system will, we trust, make Congress careful of tinkering with it. It is a matter of course that it should be found fault with, and the numerous interests should consider themselves more or less injured by it. Any system of taxation would be found fault with in the same way. But taking the whole community and the general interest, it certainly does not bear hard upon them, and its hardest bearings are not upon the poor. Seeing that the results to the public revenue are so favorable, it would therefore be as well to have as few alterations in the law as possible.

(DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.)

DATES TO FEBRUARY 1.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, February 3.—The President today sent to the Senate a correspondence with Chief Justice Chase, dated last October, wherein the President inquired if the Circuit Court in Virginia is in condition to exercise its functions as it may become necessary for the Government to prosecute some high crimes and misdemeanors committed against the United States within the limits of Virginia. Judge Chase replied that the time is [illegible] for the trial of important business before holding a circuit term in a State yet liable to martial law, and under military administration. The President also transmitted a communication to the House saying he had recognized the independence of the Dominican Republic and nominated to the Senate a Minister of the same grade as the one now accredited to Hayti. He recommends therefore that the House shall provide for compensation of this Minister.

Both houses of Congress have finally after years of debate passed a bill directing the Secretary of the Treasury to pay Charles I. Anderson, architect, $75,000, in full, for plans for the capitol extension. The Secretary of the Treasury has to-day been paid $18,689, conscience money from anonymous sources.

Arms for Mexico.

NEW YORK, February 3.—The Herald's Vera Cruz correspondent says about 30,000 stand of arms lately arrived from New York for the Imperial troops. They were condemned and returned. Thus far not an acre has been allotted to emigrants from the Southern States who were induced to come by the flattering order of Maury, and American families having expended their last cent are in pitiable condition.

Arrest of Two Newspaper Men.

NEW YORK, February 3.—Richard T. Colburn, sub editor of the New York Tribune, and Mr Knapp, proprietor of the St Louis Republican, were arrested here yesterday on a warrant issued by Judge Dowling on complaint of Alexander T. Stewart, the dry goods millionaire, that Colburn wrote and Knapp published a libel accusing Stewart of intimacies with a certain French actress. In consequence of the lateness of the hour, bail could not be procured, and both gentlemen passed the night in the station house. Stewart had a similar libel suit against the Police Gazette last week, which has been settled.

Strike among the Iron Works.

The rolling mills and nail factories of this city and vicinity, and also at Wheeling and in the Mahoning valley, are stopped by a strike among the workmen in consequence of a reduction of wages. The reduction is only on higher priced, skilled labor, but all classes participate in the strike. Manufacturers say that if they cannot operate their establishments on reduced terms, they prefer to remain idle.

Alleged Frauds by Mercer, of the W. T. Emigration Scheme.

Proceedings were commenced yesterday in civil courts for several more victims of the Mercer emigration fraud. The complainants allege that Mercer reported to them that he had been appointed by the Territorial Government of Washington Territory to collect female emigrants, and had $20,000 in gold to be distributed among them for a handsome settlement. On these recommendations they purchased their tickets, which they now hold.

Desertions from the Army.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—In consequence of the large number of desertions from the regular army during the past few months, Gen. Grant has issued an order calling on commanders to take more stringent resources for checking the evil, and also to investigate the cause and scrutinize the treatment by commissioned officers.

The Indians on the Plains.

FORT LARAMIE, Feb. 3.—A messenger from the Sioux and Cheyenne Indians was received by the commanding officer at this post yesterday. The interview was mutually satisfactory. Their chiefs have been invited to a council at Laramie. Peace prospects are favorable.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The House committee amendment fixing the base of representation will be passed by the Senate, and Trumbull's civil rights bill by the House. Both probably this week.

The Congressional plan of reconstruction so far as any majority can effect it, will be completed.

Numerous amendments will continue to be offered and discussed, but the great work stands upon the above two named propositions.

Mr. Sumner's demonstration in the Senate last Friday, offering negro suffrage as a counter proposition to the House amendment, brings him no applause and will amount to nothing.

Mr. Fessenden, having the business of the completion of the constitutional amendment in the Senate, announces that he will urge from day to day, beginning to-morrow, in order to reach the Legislatures now in session, the passage of Mr. Trumbull's bill. It will then only remain to settle the test oath and adjust the personal qualifications of the Southern members. Those two measures are as follows:

Trumbull's bill enacts that all persons born on American soil, except Indians subject to tribute authority and children of transient residents subject to any foreign power, are citizens, and that no discrimination in their rights shall be made of sect, or color, or condition, that they can make and enforce contracts, sue and be sued, buy, sell, lease, hold and convey property; to be subject to the same laws and punishments as the most favored class under the present laws. This bill extends every right of citizenship except suffrage.

The House constitutional amendment provides that the representation shall be apportioned among the several States which may be included within this Union according to their respective number, counting the whole number of persons in each State, excluding Indians, provided that whenever the elective franchise shall be denied or abridged in any State on account of race or color, all persons therein of such race or color shall be excluded from the basis of representation. Upon this amendment, Gen Bidwell, of California, voted against Messrs. Higby, McRuer, Henderson and Ashley, of the Pacific coast. Not voting among those voting no, were Raymond, of New York, and Jenks, of Rhode Island.

The speech of Thad. Stevens, on this occasion, was not represented in the best light by first reports. He said, though the House had been informed through high authority that it was better not to amend the constitution, he himself believed that this Congress had a high duty to perform which, if omitted or abused they would be held to account by this and future generations.

If the Government had been based on the principles of freedom, no amendment such as was now required by the issue of the war would have been needed, but at that time the institution of slavery brought from hell appeared among them. Rather than have no harmony, they compounded for what they believed to be the greatest good. The time had come when we should make a constitution such as our fathers intended, the time had come when, through blood, every stain had been washed out, unless we choose to re-establish slavery, which God forbid. I believe the constitution needs just such an amendment as this. He further said Congress would take pleasure in sending it to the President, though they need not submit it for his approval. It therefore was kind in the President to send advices to them without being asked. Here followed the remarks about British kings, etc., as before reported.

In the Senate Conness has presented a bill granting land for the construction of a telegraph line from Placerville to the most feasible route of intersection with the Pacific Railroad in Nevada. Senators Stewart and Nye have presented the resolutions of the Legislature of Nevada urging the passage of the latter bill.

State Legislatures in Session.

CHICAGO, Feb 1.—The following State Legislatures are now in session: Maine, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Ohio, Kentucky, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nevada, California, Florida and Tennessee.

General News.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—An application was made yesterday to the United States District Attorney Dickinson, calling on him to proceed against the California, Oregon and Mexican Steamship Company for the collection of penalties where [illegible] vessels have [illegible] stipulated number of berths.

Wool steady; sales of 100,000 lbs of domestic fleeces at 60 to 72c. Sales of $25,000 of California State 7s at 1.80. Pacific Mail at 1.65. Quicksilver Mining, [illegible] at 49.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 3.—A private despatch received here this morning announces another terrible disaster. The steamer Lady [illegible], from Louisville to New Orleans exploded her boiler near Vicksburg yesterday. A large number of persons are reported killed. No other particulars.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The Senate is not in session. In the House, speeches to empty benches were made by Marshall, of Illinois and Kasson, Shanklin and Ritter, of Kentucky. Detective Baker was not sentenced yesterday, as expected on the indictment for the imprisonment of Mrs Cobb. There are three other indictments against him for [illegible] false imprisonment and extortion, on which he will be tried within the next two weeks.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—James R. Spaulding, assistant editor of the Times who had taken a trip to New Orleans for his health, was, on his return last Wednesday, struck with paralysis. It is feared it will prove fatal.

Exports for the week amount to $7,[illegible],000. It is reported that orders have been received for $300,000 worth of bonds of the Irish Republic, of which $100,000 worth were [illegible] in use in San Francisco through a nephew of Gen. Shields.

The North American Lloyds have purchased the Pacific mail steamers Atlantic and [illegible]. The former sails this month for Southampton and Bremen. The Baltimore goes in April.

Treason Rife in Tennessee.

The Nashville Union says the following correspondence has been handed in for publication. Its credibility is beyond all dispute. The malignant and blood thirsty spirit of treason which glutted itself with the lives of Union men in 1861 is evidently untamed and loyal people who have been true to the Government carry their lives in their hands. If the partisans of the rebellion are so bold already what will be the doom of Union men if their old tyrants are suffered to regain their political power?

LA GRANGE (Tenn.) December 8th.

Gov. G. W. Brownlow—Sir: The inclosed copy of a communication was dropped in front of Colonel Melcher's store last evening. We desire to call your attention to its character. It seems to us a renewal of the same spirit that existed in 1861. You have already expressed your opinion that "the rebels are not yet whipped," and appearances indicate there may be a renewal at any time of attacks on Union men. We wish at this time also to call your attention to the fact that our town authorities were elected last June by themselves, and in July authorized by General Smith to conduct the affairs of the corporation which they have continued to do to the present although not one of them at the time was a legal voter in accordance with the present laws of Tennessee, and we have no evidence they have or can conveniently take the oath, with perhaps, a single exception. The administration of affairs has been generally regulated so as to bring the burden of expense on Union men, most of whom have sympathized with or participated in the rebellion, are very nearly exempt from taxation. The general talk is "the d—d Yankees have destroyed the town, and have got to build it up again." We have paid our taxes and assessments quietly, hoping for a better state of things. The election for a new Board will take place on the first Friday in January, and we see on every hand indications that the whole thing will be controlled by those who for four years have by deed or word tried to destroy our Union. We most respectfully and earnestly request you may take such early steps as will assist us to have a fair standing at that election. For instance, cannot some suitable person be appointed to register votes for the election, that only those qualified and who really are true Union men be allowed to vote? We would suggest some one be appointed here, who is a reliable Union man. As we have all resided the necessary period to become legal voters, any one of our number would be acceptable. We have all served in the army, and are ready to again "rally round the flag" if needed, and do our best to sustain it with our lives, if need be.

Hoping you will be pleased to grant us this favor, we remain, Governor,

Your obedient servants, William F. Alexander, late Lieutenant Seventh Tennessee Cavalry; O. H. Werdeck, late Assistant Surgeon United States Army; H. Melcher, late Lieutenant Colonel Sixth Cavalry, Missouri State Militia; John Baum, late Lieutenant Company C, Twenty second Missouri Infantry; J. W. Elliott, late Captain Company H, North Carolina State Militia; S. W. Baird, late Captain Fifty-third Ohio Volunteers; W. H. Harlan, late Captain Sixth Iowa Infantry; G. B. Rawlins, late Sergeant Company A, First Mississippi Cavalry; W. H. Clark, late Colonel Ninth Iowa Volunteer Infantry.

THE WARNING.

MARSHALL COUNTY (Miss.), Dec 6, 1865.

Dr Melcher, La Grange, Tennessee. Sir—You are hereby "ordered" to leave La Grange and vicinity by the 25th inst. This order also includes Baird, Alexander, Elliott, Banks (meaning Box), Rawlins, and all other negro worshippers in and about La Grange. Our motto is peaceably if possible, forcibly if necessary. We are determined to get shed of all such characters from among us. We are "determined!" So you all had better leave. You all have fought us for four years, and now think to make your fortune by selling arms and ammunition to our former slaves, to murder ourselves, women and children. But you will be foiled in your schemes.

For the present, let it suffice that we are "imperative." We have given you all fair warning in time.

"MANY CITIZENS."

A CASE OF REBEL CRUELTY.—A case has come to our knowledge recently, says the New York Tribune, which belongs to that class of events that tax the power of belief. A negro named Richard Thomas Griffin, living in slavery in Tennessee before the war, was taken into the rebel army as a teamster and a blacksmith. He attempted to escape through rebel lines, and after going some miles was captured by two rebel cavalrymen, who carried him back to his master. Dr Williams came to him while in prison for the crime of desertion, and said, to quote the negro's own artless narrative:

"Griffin you shan't run away again, I'm going to cut your feet off!" He made me drink something from a black bottle—it was not laudanum, for I know the taste of that—and I fell asleep. I awoke in the night and found that both my feet were cut off. In the morning I began to feel pain. Dr. Williams came in and looked at me. He said "Dick, I tried to kill you—you are a d—d hard nigger to kill—now I'll try to cure you." He dressed my legs, and continued to do so until the Yankees began to raid around Jonesboro, when they moved the hospital, leaving me in charge of a negro woman, who took care of me until the Federals came in. When I was able to move about on my knees, I was passed to Knoxville and then to Nashville, at the Soldier's Home. I was advised to stay here until Governor Brownlow came home. Somebody saw Gov. Brownlow and told him of my case. He said he would see when Captain Gammon and would try to hunt him up. At Nashville the officers refused to give me transportation to the North, as they said it was against orders. But two gentlemen in the transportation office paid my passage to Louisville, and from that place I was sent to Washington on a Government pass.

There can be no doubt of the truth of this atrocious story. The poor fellow is now in New York, and in want. He is one of the tenderest victims of slavery that Providence has sent us and we should do our share towards alleviating his sufferings.

THE VIRGINIA LEGISLATURE ON BUTLER.—The following resolution was recently introduced in the Virginia Legislature by Hirsh. Such an exhibition of impotent malice on the part of a rebel, serves to amuse other people rather than to awaken in them a feeling of anger:

WHEREAS, it is currently reported and generally believed that the celebrated Hudibrastic General B. F. Butler is about to take charge of this military Department, with powers extraordinary therefore

Resolved, That whatever money may remain in the State Treasury be immediately divided among the widows and orphans of the deceased soldiers, and couriers be dispatched to the various counties requesting the people to secrete or bury their plate.

Mrs. Boswell, wife of the biographer of Dr Johnson, was annoyed that the Doctor should possess so much influence over her husband. "I have often known bears led by men," she said, "but this is the first time I ever heard of a man led by a bear."

THE LITTLE JOKER.—A new comic paper is announced to appear in New York soon. Its title is The Little Joker. Artemus Ward, Orpheus C. Kerr and Joseph Barber are named among its writers, and it is promised to subscribers for the price of fifty cents per annum.

FOR AN IRRITATED THROAT, COUGH OR COLD, "Brown's Bronchial Troches" are offered with the fullest confidence in their efficacy. They have been thoroughly tested and maintain the good reputation they have justly acquired. Asthmatic and Consumptive persons [illegible].

Portland Turn Verein.—A special meeting will be held at the Turn Hall, Saturday, 10th inst., at 11 o'clock A. M. A full attendance is requested.

L. METZGER, Sec'y.

Steamer Echo.—The owners of the Steamer Echo tender their thanks to Capt. Miller and the officers of the P. T. Company's Steamer Enterprise for assistance rendered the Echo, and for their kindness in bringing her passengers and freight when she was disabled in the Willamette last Monday evening.

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN.

THE WEEKLY OREGONIAN is published this morning. It contains the latest telegraphic news from the East and [illegible] full and reliable [illegible] Market [illegible] commercial information [illegible] published by any paper in the State.

The opening announcement [illegible] the WEEKLY OREGONIAN is double that published by any other journal in Oregon, and in the particulars of commercial statistics and the Markets we [illegible] the most reliable, more especially in matters pertaining to Oregon interests.

Single copies 12½ cents, or $3 00 per year to any part of the United States or British Columbia.

NEWS FROM OWYHEE IN DETAIL.—We are permitted to make use of a portion of a private letter from Ruby City Owyhee, dated January 14th, 1866, from which we obtain the following matters of general interest regarding things in that section. The writer, Mr. John A. Post, formerly of Oregon City, is a gentleman well known, in whom our people have implicit confidence. The weather has been lovely since the first of January, and the people seem to have gathered new energy to enable them to combat the balance of the winter. Work is being rapidly pushed forward. The various mills have full compliments of hands, and are making every effort to bring them to completion. The N. Y. and Owyhee mill, 20 stamps, will soon be ready to crush rock. They have considerable rock at the mill from the Minnesota ledge, which will undoubtedly yield a handsome return—nearly every piece of it shows the gold plainly. They are also hauling rock from the Hays and Ray. The Cosmos Mill, 20 stamps, is not so far towards completion as the above, but will doubtless be ready to run in about four weeks. Their mine—the fourth extension north of the Oro Fino—is being worked night and day. The Cosmos Mill, 10 stamps, is the last mill which came in last fall, but through the energy of its Superintendent, Mr. Mustgrave, has done it discounted some of the others in fast work. The N. Y. and Oro Fino Mill, 10 stamps, is located on the east side of the War Eagle mountain, and I understand will be completed early in the spring. The Pioneer, Morning Star and Vass mills are being run day and night, and are making the usual yields. The Oregon mill is laid up for machinery. The Sheonbar mill is laboring under legal difficulties. As to the various ledges here, I think they are all good and will all pay to work—some more than others. Among the most prominent now are the Poorman, Trook and Jennings, Oro Fino, Morning Star, Silver Cord, Silver Brick, Minnesota, and others. The Poorman is closed until the first of June, so its untold wealth will remain hidden yet for a time. The Trook and Jennings still continues to take out very rich ore. The Silver Cord is an old ledge, discovered among the first, but was not much thought of. The original locators did a little work on it, but concluded there were hundreds of better ledges here, and let it run out. Another party came along and [illegible], and they having struck something they thought better forfeited it. Last fall the original owners concluded they do sometimes work upon the ledge as it appeared to be in a good location, and they had secured their other interests. They had not sunk over three feet upon it before they struck splendid rock, and taking a pan of the loose rock and earth they panned out $22 10 in one pan—thus, by comparatively little work, a ledge that was considered worthless, was demonstrated to be one of the best in camp. There are numerous other interests here which have turned out the same way. There is scarcely a ledge in Flint District but which has been similarly located and re-located, twice or thrice, and now it is known that there is not a poor ledge in the district. A little work has accomplished wonders here in many instances, and men will [illegible] as the result which will be produced in Owyhee and French districts, when the miners get fairly at work, and rely upon this market for the sale of their ledges, [illegible] than the eastern. You seem to doubt the existence of Tin here in any great quantities. You are entirely mistaken! I believe there is more tin in the mine at the head of Jordan creek than in all the world. [illegible] The ledge, or deposit, is two hundred feet wide, and for nearly the entire width every piece of rock is the richest kind of tin ore! We have tin enough here to tin over the world, and WE WANT THE CAPITAL AND MACHINERY TO GET IT OUT. ....The latest excitement has been after diamonds. There is no doubt but that diamonds have been found somewhere on the foot-hills of Sinker creek, but whether the crystals which are being passed around here from hand to hand are diamonds, I am unable to say. The best judges pronounce a few of them diamonds and upon their opinion we rest until we hear from more reliable authority. A number have been sent to San Francisco and New York to be tested.....We have just found out that we have a very respectable population up here. An effort was recently made to change the county seat from Ruby to Silver City. Silver succeeded in getting up a petition 300 strong, but Ruby went in on a [illegible] of over 700, and laid the petition on the table.

STEAMBOAT RIVALRY.—The boats of the Willamette river, now running opposition, are carrying passengers [illegible] Portland and Oregon City for nothing. The price of passage having been the only difference between the lines on which to base a rivalry, and that now being [illegible] by the recent order not to collect fare, the strife to obtain the object of their pursuit has turned upon the number of [illegible] carried and the predominance of the fair sex. The boat which is favored by the [illegible] of the fairest [illegible] is to be ahead. And the superiority in competiting. We are in hopes that all rivalry will be discontinued, and if either company should so far forget their obligations to the [illegible] as to enter upon a contest of speed not justifiable, they should be driven to the extreme of [illegible] without the [illegible] of sympathy. Opposition should be done [illegible] by all good men, when it brings evil results—if two lines of [illegible] are to be run on the river, we should think it best that the work be done in the same manner as honest competition in any other [illegible]. If there is not room for two lines to operate to advantage, as stated rates, there is certainly not room for them to operate as they are at present doing. One of them [illegible] give it up, sooner or later, when the people will be called on to foot these expenses [illegible] pay for these free rides, etc., out of extra prices they will be required to pay the successful company.

A PLEASURE GIG.—Mr. Bruce has just finished, at his boat yard in this city, a fine gig, or sail boat, after the fashion of a surf boat, for Mr. Taylor of Sauvie's Island. The boat will be launched to-day—she is 23 feet long, 7 feet beam, 22 inches depth, and of 5,000 pounds burthen. The owner has named this new craft Florence, in honor of his daughter child. The farmers of Sauvie's Island can boast of as fertile land and fine farms as any other spot of Oregon, and ought surely to be the most thrifty of our population, living so near an excellent market as is afforded by this city. The Island is a perfect garden spot, and as to game, it is decidedly the field for sportsmen about here. One can take his boat and row to Sauvie's Island, and by little effort bag more fine ducks, and other birds about the lakes of the Island in a short time than elsewhere we know of. But there is a seeming something lacking to give encouragement to the resident there. We should think, so large a body of rich, arable land ought to support well, and comfortably, and contentedly, a large neighborhood. There is daily from two to six steamers passing the Island to and from Portland, and by building a town along the river at some convenient point, a brisk trade would spring up, and by concentrating the interests of the people, give them a decided predominance of favor in supplying the market with all the products of the farm and dairy. The lack of this concentration, we presume, gives rise to the fact that [illegible] all the farmers there use their own conveniences of travel, and build for [illegible] their own crafts. The Florence is a fine boat, and will no doubt answer the [illegible] for which she was built abundantly well.

THEATRICAL.—It gives us some satisfaction to be able to state that Mr. Ward has returned to Portland with his Theatrical company after a successful tour inland, and will re-open Willamette Theatre this evening. In order that the season may not prove financially a failure—as we are sorry to say has been quite too often the case in this city—the Manager has decided to restrict the free admission system, as tolerated by different Managers heretofore. We must admit our surprise at learning how far the free list has habitually been extended here, and at the same time confess that our wonderment at former failures of the best companies, exist after our knowledge of the facts that the apparently good houses were not what they seemed, in reality in point of finances. It cannot be expected that a company can come here and amuse our public under such circumstances, and to admit the majority of an audience free would certainly be injustice to those who pay, as well as a losing arrangement for the Manager. We trust none may take offense at the course about to be pursued by Mr. Ward for his own protection. Those who have been the recipients of past favors, knowing full well that he is deserving support, ought to be as prompt now to attend the entertainments as they were when it cost them nothing, and unless they are the Manager should not be censured if he make a few private reservations public. We feel assured that all liberal minded people will acquiesce in the new policy. See advertisement.

SEEING THE ELEPHANT.—A man named Frothington, who was on a visit to the "Emporium" from the interior went "about town" on Thursday night to see the elephant. Starting out with $700 in gold about his person, he spent considerable at the side shows, and finally brought up about flat broke at one of the main menageries in the basement of a building on Stark street, where his appreciation was giving vent to a speech not in accordance with the rules that govern a quiet and peaceable city. The police wishing to learn the cause of the noisy brawl, made a descent upon the premises and took Frothington while in the act of brandishing a revolver over the heads of the "audience." The noisy customer was locked up, but realizing the situation, and probably knowing that the turn events had taken place, would give him but a meagre [illegible] for his money, he concluded to go $20 more, and entrusted that sum to the officers for his appearance at the Recorder's Court yesterday morning. In this he failed to show himself, and judgment was entered against him by default, for riotous conduct, in exhibiting a deadly weapon.

A VIRTUOUS DAME.—Notwithstanding the spirited [illegible] of Miss Matilda Hopper, when arrested for robbing Jacob Levy, at the Mammoth saloon, in which she declared herself a lady of virtue, and a common lager beer girl, showing her nerve by contracting the muscle of her arm, and asserting that she was a sister of the Hoppers, capable of speaking six different languages, and fairly outrivaling preacher McAllister, the Court found her guilty of the charge as preferred, and she was obliged yesterday to pay a fine of $50 and costs. We have no doubt but that Judge Hoffman felt that he was letting her off cheaply, but as Levy had impeached himself by his conflicting evidence, and was really as bad as the woman, the Judge could not consistent with facts have done otherwise than he did. Had Levy have been a man of unimpeachable character there would have been no possibility of the woman getting clear with less than a fine of $500 or $600, and probably she might have gone to serve a term as laundress for the State at the brick house on the McAdamized road.

THE ACADEMY.—There was an exhibition at the Portland Academy and Female Seminary yesterday which showed an advancement among the scholars, and a thought and understanding of their studies quite complimentary to the discipline of the institution and commendable in the corps of teachers.

THE PACIFIC.—The steamer Pacific did not leave San Francisco, as was reported, on Tuesday last but sailed for Portland on Thursday at 10 o'clock A. M. This will be the cause of her non arrival until Sunday night.

ACCIDENT TO THE FOHO.—We regret to learn of an accident which happened to Capt. Ankeny's steamer, the Echo, on her last trip to Eugene. It is reported that when within nine miles of Eugene she encountered a huge snag, which tore her hull badly. The [illegible] of the People's Transportation Company, was [illegible] in the rear, and coming up took off the passengers and freight [illegible] the Echo carrying the same to Eugene City. It is [illegible] dangerous navigating the Willamette, and we are only surprised that more accidents do not happen. The Echo was built by Capt. Ankeny last season for the purpose of demonstrating that the Willamette could be navigated the entire year [illegible] with the boats. Two [illegible] pass up the river [illegible] along the river when low water [illegible] We hope the Echo has not been seriously damaged, and are yet [illegible] and make many trips [illegible]

P. S. Since the above was written we have seen Capt. Ankeny, who informs us that the boat is not badly injured. She will be repaired and under way in a few days. The hull of the Echo is divided into fourteen water tight compartments, and it was all [illegible] almost impossible to sink her. The accident left nothing about her machinery out of order, and did not even take a bucket out of her wheel.

CREDITABLE.—We learn that Mr. J. Putnam Smith has collected in this city three hundred and fifty dollars for the benefit of the widow of one of our late lamented townsmen, Mr. D. Crandall. Other sums have been promised which will be collected soon. Mrs. C. is at present in San Francisco. The efforts which have been put forth by Mr. Smith in obtaining this money do him credit. It is no small matter to collect a sum like this in the little driblets in which it is paid in.

FAIR AT VANCOUVER.—It will be seen by advertisement that the ladies of Vancouver design holding a fair at that place on Monday and Tuesday evenings of next week for the benefit of St. Luke's (Episcopal) Church. The 14th Infantry band have been engaged to enliven the occasion with their excellent music. The good people of our city are invited to attend.

THE EAGLE BAKERY.—Mr. Geo. T. Myers has disposed of his establishment—the Eagle Bakery, corner of First and Taylor streets—and proposes to leave for the East very soon. While we regret to lose [illegible] from among our business people, we are pleased that two as true and tried men as Lieut. Wm. Kapus and Col. J. M. Drake are his successors. Their card appears in another column.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.—The Commissioners Court yesterday denied the petition of Mrs. Frush for a license to run a ferry boat as prayed for. Considerable business was transacted by the Court, in awarding claims, when they adjourned to meet again this day.

THE RIVER.—The river is again rapidly rising at this point. Last evening the stage had attained some five feet over that of Tuesday evening, and was sufficient to drive business from the lowest part of Couch's dock.

GRANT AND SEWARD.—The Washington correspondent of the San Francisco Alta has the following:

I had the honor of a brief interview, a few days ago, with the greatest captain of the age. He is not much changed in his personal appearance from what he was when I first met him several years ago at Knight's Ferry, on the river Stanislaus. After mentioning the mutual friend from whom I bore a letter of introduction, and who the General said should have been here to have seen the army in motion, I told him how gratified we were in California when we heard of his grand final success, resulting in the taking of Richmond and the surrender of the rebels under General Lee. I also remarked that had the call been made for troops for active service from California, it would have been responded to. He replied, "They have the opportunity yet in Mexico." I said that in such a case I thought 20,000 picked men could readily be furnished by California. "There will not be so many as that required," he replied, "5,000 men, with sufficient officers, will be all that will be necessary." Of the many portraits of General Grant that I have seen, the best is a lithograph (full length) published in Frank Leslie's Illustrated Almanac of 1865.

At a reception at Secretary Seward's house a few evenings since, he addressed himself upon the subject to the effect that if Congress would furnish him with seven millions of dollars he could settle the matter without any further difficulty, but he did not believe they would vote it; and further, he said that heretofore he had been holding back in the matter, but now that the rebellion was crushed, although it would be ruinous financially, to have a war on our hands, yet if the people wished it and would have it, he would hold back no longer.

The Spanish-Chilean war has roused a strong feeling in the breasts of the Cuban Liberals in New York and here, and they want the United States to interfere somehow in the matter and take Cuba. All these Spanish-American countries are looking to Uncle Sam as their natural guardian against oppression.

HORACE GREELEY ON THE SITUATION.—The National Intelligencer has the following from Horace Greeley:

In your issue of this morning you have spoken of my presence in Washington and of my views of the political situation, in terms which seem to require of me a few explanatory words. I herewith submit them. I desire and labor for peace between our country and all others—peace between North and South, peace between white and black. We have had enough of war and waste, of havoc and carnage for at least a century hence. I have long labored, and still labor, for true and lasting peace, and can conceive no possible good to our country, to any institution, race or class that is likely to be secured or promoted by alienation between the President and Congress of the United States. On the contrary, it seems to me that every peril that now threatens us, every evil that now weighs upon us would be aggravated, every good put at hazard, every hope clouded if not blasted by such a malign, untoward collision. I have come here to do whatever I can, however little that may be, toward avoiding such a catastrophe, but I am not, as your paragraph would seem to imply that I am, the advocate of any especial plan of reconstruction. I urge only that the President and Congress, each respecting the other's constitutional prerogative and personal convictions, shall freely and trustfully confer, discuss and consider with a profound deference for each other's patriotism, and an earnest desire to agree on a course of action which they shall mutually deem just and beneficial. Let the great problem of reconstruction be approached from all sides in this spirit, and I feel sure that a benign solution will be attained. Our difficulties are aggravated by the fact that our position is essentially novel. I can recall no parallel in human history. It is complicated by questions affecting the natural rights of the freedmen and our own moral obligations to them as our allies in the late momentous struggle.

STEAM WAGONS FOR THE PLAINS.—The recent discovery of coal among the mountains of Colorado is destined to work a revolution in transportation across the western plains. The Toledo Blade says a company has already been organized in Boston and New York, with a capital of six million dollars, for the purpose of placing a line of steam traction engines on the road between the Mississippi and the Rocky Mountains, a distance of six hundred and fifty miles. An engine of thirty-two tons weight is now in process of construction, and will be put in operation as soon as it and the necessary wagons are ready. The route from Nebraska City to Denver has been recently surveyed, and it is reported to be well adapted to the use of traction engines. The freight business across the plains is said to be very great—amounting the present season, it is estimated, to two million pounds. By the use of these engines, it is said that trains can cross the plains in six days, while mule and cattle trains occupy from forty to sixty days in crossing.

BAYARD TAYLOR.—Bayard Taylor is writing a new novel, which has for the hero an American tourist. The New York correspondent of a western paper gives this account of the plot:

The gentleman falls in love with an Italian beauty he accidentally meets at Rome in the atelier of an artist for whom she was sitting as a model. The romantic lover is separated from his divinity again and again, but at last, after a variety of adventures and romantic experiences, is wedded to her, and the tale ends most felicitously, as it usually does in the story books designed for the edification of good little children. There are some art criticisms in the volume that are mentioned favorably by those who have seen the manuscript.

The English Court of Chancery has recently decided a copyright case which is of considerable interest and importance to American authors. According to that court, if an American author sells a book to an English publisher while residing in Canada, the copyright will hold in England. The case in which this decision was given is that of a publisher of one of Miss Cumins' novels, who sued another publisher for pirating the work he had bought. He was given damages, and an injunction on the offending publisher was ordered.

A romantic story has recently been published in the "Love Life" of Dr. Kane. It seems that he was secretly married to a Miss Margaret Fox, but the social position of the lady being inferior to that of his own family the marriage was not publicly recognized. At his death Dr. Kane left money in trust for the support of his wife, but his relations have withheld it from her, and brought her character into question. This "Love Life" seems to have been publised for the purpose, in part, of vindicating her character.

On his return from India Brown was asked how he liked tiger hunting. "It's very good sport as long as you hunt the tiger," he replied, "but if hard pressed, he sometimes takes it into his head to hunt you—then it has its drawbacks."

A mint is to be erected and put in operation at Carson City, immediately.

Alabama Legislators

That a fair estimate may be made of the kind of Congressmen chosen by the rebel States, we give below, from a late number of the Philadelphia Inquirer a record of the Alabama delegation now elected to Congress. This is probably a fair sample of the delegations which have been sent from all the rebel States—Tennessee, Arkansas and perhaps parts of Virginia excepted. Our readers can judge for themselves whether the persons below described are proper parties in whom to confide the powers of legislators, while there are so many important issues yet to be decided

FIRST DISTRICT—C. W. LANGDON

Langdon is a Northern man by birth and education, and has lived in Alabama for the last thirty years. He was an active politician of the Whig school, a Bell and Everett supporter, in 1860, and no man was a more zealous advocate of "the Constitution, the Union, and the enforcement of the law" up to the first election of Abraham Lincoln But as soon as secession became popular Langdon fell into line, and out-Heroded Herod in his devotion to "the cause." In his canvass as a candidate for a seat in the rebel Congress in 1863, he boldly declared it his policy and the policy of the South to hoist the Black Flag, and show no quarter to the dirty Yankee soldiers, but to put them to the sword. He does not wave that black flag now, but is intensely anxious to be the standard bearer of the restoration party.

SECOND DISTRICT—"MAJOR" GEORGE C FREEMAN.

Freeman was a co laborer with Langdon for "the Constitution, the Union and the enforcement of the law," until about three weeks after Lincoln's election, when he jumped boldly into the ranks of the Secessionists. He raised a company in Lowndes county, to fight for his "rights in the Territories," was subsequently made a Major in a rebel regiment, got one of his legs shot off just above the knee, and with the wound scarce fully healed, comes on crutches to claim repose after battle in the soft seats in Congress. He is an extreme advocate of reconstruction.

THIRD DISTRICT—"GENERAL" CULLEN A BATTLE.

Cullen A. Battle was an active Secessionist and revolutionist. He urged the secession of Alabama, made up a company in response to Governor A. B. Moore's proclamation early in 1861, went to Florida, and aided in the taking of Forts Barrancas and McRae, and the Navy Yard, even before the secession of the State. He was subsequently elected a Major of the Third Alabama Regiment, went to Virginia and was promoted to a Brigadier General[illegible]. In the late canvass for Congress he ran against Colonel George Reese, a good man, who can take the oath. He declared the test oath contemptible; denounced every man in the State who could take the oath as a poltroon, and either a perjurer or a hypocrite.

FOURTH DISTRICT—"COLONEL" JOSEPH M. TAYLOR.

Joseph M. Taylor was a Bell and Everett elector in 1860; he defines his own position in the following extract from a speech made at a public meeting held in Eutaw, Greene county, the place of his residence, on the 15th day of August, 1863;

"J. M. Taylor then addressed the people ably at some length. He stated that he had opposed the war at the commencement and voted the co-[illegible] but that no sooner had the North displayed its policy than he [illegible] resolved that the South had struck her blow, not an hour too soon, and that from that time to this, and henceforward, he favored an earnest prosecution of the war until our independence was achieved. He urged upon the people the necessity of clothing and feeding the army at every sacrifice; denounced [illegible] extortioners, who were bartering in their country's blood; croakers had been from the commencement, and would continue to the end; that annihilation was far preferable to subjugation; that there was no possible means of reconstruction, and he who advocated it was a traitor; he who accepted it lower than the slave. He forcibly asked the people what epitaph would they [illegible] over the graves of their sons, brothers and [illegible] that of rebel, traitor or patriot? Were the people prepared to dishonor the graves of their [illegible]"

To indicate the character of the meeting Colonel Taylor thus eloquently addressed, I clip the following [illegible] the published account of its proceedings:

"For the last six weeks a good deal of excitement has existed in this county, both locally and as to the state of the country generally, in consequence of which it was thought advisable for the people of Greene county to assemble together, and to say the people's [illegible] for that purpose. The meeting was large, and the attendance very general. At a [illegible], in this county, known as Union, on the day of election, some twelve persons voluntarily cast their votes for reconstruction, which is equivalent to saying [illegible] for Yankee rule. This has very naturally exasperated the people, and at the same time [illegible] a feeling of some little uneasiness. The idea that twelve persons could be found in one of the wealthiest counties in the State bold and [illegible] enough to commit an act of so grave a nature, is somewhat surprising. It is more than probable that there are the same 'kith and kin' in other counties, and it behooves us to be watchful, vigilant and determined, and wherever traitors are found they should find a traitor's doom. Dead traitors will pilot no Yankee raids, and lead not the incendiary and wanton to our homes and plantations."

He is, however, now a Union advocate for President Johnson's policy.

FIFTH DISTRICT—"MAJOR" SHEID.

Sheid is but little known in the State or the district in which he is elected. The only apology [illegible], so far as can be ascertained, and which he [illegible] as a qualification for his election to Congress, was that he was a Tennessee guerrilla and fled from his former home in that State, in consequence of the prejudice against him for burning and destroying the [illegible] of the Union army, [illegible] the flag of our country in the field. The outrages thus permitted by Major Sheid [illegible] of the most heinous character, and he cannot return to Tennessee. He is decidedly in favor of President Johnson's policy.

SIXTH DISTRICT—[illegible] R. F. [illegible]

[illegible] was an [illegible], and brought on the fight against the Government, but while the fight was [illegible] he sought a bomb-proof [illegible] in the way of a seat in the rebel Congress, and so far as [illegible] able to ascertain took but little part in the fight he was so active in to [illegible] in bringing about. He is, however, now an advocate of President Johnson's policy, [illegible] the test oath, and like General Battle, spits [illegible] all in the South who would take it.

MONROE.—The New Yorkers are creating considerable excitement in favor of the immediate enforcement of the Monroe Doctrine in the expulsion of Maximilian from Mexico. The leading spirit [illegible] to be the poet Wm. C. Bryant, editor of the Evening Post.

INGENIOUS.—The latest product of Yankee ingenuity is the self-wringing mop. By the use of it house-cleaning becomes a fine art. It is neat durable, labor-saving, and there is no longer need of scalding the hands in water or getting on to the knees to do the scrubbing out.

The Call figures from the Assessor's reports that San Francisco lacks only some two millions of dollars of being one-half of the property in the State. It pays into the State Treasury about half the money received by that institution from ordinary sources of revenue.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEEKLY REVIEW

PORTLAND, February 9, 1866

Without mails from California with any great regularity, and the failure of the telegraph to keep us posted for the most part of the period under review, we are not well informed as to occurrences outside. In our own immediate vicinity nothing unusual has taken place in point of interest to the financial and commercial community. There have been, since the opening of communication with the Dalles, more or less arrivals every day from the mining regions, in the interior of the great Columbia basin, and trade has picked up considerably on account of the resumption of business to the Dalles. We may now have come to hope—the season having so far advanced—that no further troubles will exist in the way of a revival of trade on the Columbia.

Among arrivals of passengers from the upper country during the last week, we have already referred to that of Dr S B Farnham, Superintendent of the N Y and Idaho Company, and others, from South Boise. Dr F [illegible] us that matters in his vicinity were moving favorably when he left on January 31. The various mills, with the exception of that of his company, closed by attachment, and the Victor Company closed for repairs, were busy in operations, with the most favorable results. The mill of the Boston Company 10 stamps Harris, Superintendent, was working rock from the Wide West ledge. The O Neil mill, 10 stamps, was being operated by the Waddingham Company, on ore from the Confederate Star. The Idaho mill, 12 stamps was working ore from the Idaho ledge. The 12 stamp mill of Messrs Carter Gates & Co, was working under the superintendence of Maj Spear, on ore from the Ada Elmore. When the Victor Company closed they began work upon their New York and Golden Eagle ledges. Their mill has 8 stamps. Capt Nelson Superintendent

Dr Farnham far from being discouraged, speaks in terms of encouragement regarding the condition of his company. He feels quite confident of future success notwithstanding the reverses he has met through the inattention of the financial agent and Secretary, Mr. Tripp who was sent on to aid him in the business concerns of the company but who really threw obstacles in the way and did nothing. It is Dr Farnham's opinion that had Mr Tripp visited South Boise the mill would have now been running daily and able to pay dividends upon the capital stock

The works as we have been able to learn, not alone from Dr Farnham are of the most creditable character. The mill has been in successful operation and is now in perfect order. The buildings comprising the property of the company are as follows: Mill, of frame work 44 by 60 feet; assay office of stone with vaults in solid rock 16 by 20; boarding house one and a half stories high frame 20 by 60 feet; blacksmith shop 16 by 20; Superintendent's residence 16 by 28—all neatly enclosed and occupied. The mill has ten stamps ready for operation and is calculated for ten more; has five amalgamating pans and is of the best order of machinery throughout

The company own 1000 feet in the Richmond ledge which has four tunnels immediately upon the ledge varying from 50 to 150 feet each showing the average width of the ledge to be from three to five feet. They also have 1 000 feet in the Union ledge, which has two tunnels. One near the center running east 125 feet, another running west 145 feet, the vein averaging eight feet. In addition to this the past season they have secured 3,000 feet in other ledges, which have been sufficiently developed to define width course, and secure titles. Five miles of road had been graded the past year, leading to the mill from the various tunnels of the company not one of which is more than a quarter of a mile distant.

When this mill was closed by attachment there was in it 250 tons of rock for crushing. That crushed had given satisfactory evidence of its worth, and enabled the Superintendent to materially reduce the liabilities of the company. The mill would not have been stopped at all, had the Financial Secretary been prompt in attending to the business assigned him. As it now stands it is in a good shape to resume operations, and we certainly hope that satisfactory arrangements may be made by which the works will be able to proceed at an early day. The propositions of Dr F to the company from the creditors will, without doubt, lead to a speedy settlement of affairs

There are various enterprises recently started at South Boise which promise the most flattering results from investments. The Mountain Pride, a New York company, the Pittsburgh, and other companies are preparing for active work in the spring, and the Red Warrior and Bear Creek Tunnel Company are already engaged upon an important work, tunneling the Red Warrior Mountain under the privileges of the Idaho quartz law

From Owyhee we have news confirming the discovery of gold in that region, and a detailed account of intelligence from there, published in the DAILY is of much moment

Financial matters are quiet in the city. There is but little bullion arriving, and exchange rates at ½ ℔ cent on San Francisco, 2½ ℔ cent on New York. Money is in active demand, takers seeking at the outside rates of interest. Coin[illegible] is dull

Wholesale and Jobbing Prices.

PORTLAND, February 9, 1866

The opening of the Columbia trade to the Dalles has caused some activity in staple goods, provisions, etc, and a perceptible feeling of satisfaction is visible by reason of the close of winter and the near approach of spring when brisk trade will set in. Stocks are generally very good, but the Pacific, now due at this port, will doubtless augment the stocks on hand, and certainly supply many [illegible] which have been [illegible] for some time. making less than two fifths of the real amount said Mayer was to pay. He had secured the building at very advantageous rates, and even were he now to comply with his contract, and pay in Coin, would be getting the best bargain in the city. I make this statement to show the public what kind of a man he must be to take such undue advantages of the times to convert a few dollars to himself by LEGAL SWINDLING. The public can readily see how much it costs to have such tenants in such costly buildings as the one referred to above

THE STANDARD

AMERICAN BILLIARD TABLES!

AND COMBINATION CUSHIONS.

MESSRS. PHELAN & COLLENDER

WOULD RESPECTFULLY CALL THE ATTENTION of persons wanting Billiard Tables to the great superiority of the above tables, manufactured exclusively at their establishment.

At the Billiard Congress of 1863, composed of all the first class players of America, it was unanimously resolved that tables of our manufacture should be used at all matches for the Championship as the best and only reliable tables

These Billiard Tables have received the unqualified approval of the best players and most competent judges who have universally pronounced them unequaled for general excellence and durability

Seven distinct patents for improvements in Billiard Tables have been granted to us by the United States Patent Office, and we have lately obtained a Patent from the French Government, for our improvement in Billiard Cushions.

We employ, in the construction of our tables a variety of machinery specially made for the purpose by means of which we are enabled to insure a scientific and mathematical accuracy hitherto unknown in Billiard manufacture.

Having a long experience and thorough knowledge of all the appliances of Billiards and constantly on hand a large stock of the best and most thoroughly seasoned materials we are prepared to furnish everything required in the Billiard line with unprecedented dispatch

The eminent French Billiard Player M Berger, has published the following opinion:

"New York, 21 August 1861

"On the eve of leaving the United States, I am happy to declare to all amateurs of Billiards that, after a tour of eleven months through the principal cities, I have been enabled to judge in a satisfactory manner of the superiority of the Billiard Tables manufactured by Phelan & Collender. The system of manufacturing is so superior that I am happy to introduce their style of cushion into France. They have united to their manufacture of American Billiard Tables that of the French Tables, of remarkable excellence and beauty. For these reasons, I am happy to make this declaration

"BERGER, CLAUDIUS,
Prof of Billiards, Paris "

Parties ordering from us will find our prices as low as good work can possibly be made for. We sell first-class articles at a fair price, and will not make an inferior article at any price

Orders by mail carefully and promptly executed. Illustrated Catalogues and Price Lists sent by mail. The "BILLIARD CUE," a Journal published in the interest of Billiards and containing details of all novelties, a copious record of Billiard news, and everything of interest to amateurs of Billiards, sent free on application
